

basic^{cap} Home

Feeling at home in the office.

The home office, or remote working, is becoming a relevant form of work and thus a central component of the office of the future. With the changing work need, the living space also changes: Workplaces that enable smart working are set up in the living room, hallway or in the bedroom. This requires flexible environments in many places, because a separate study is not always available.

basic^{cap} Home combines storage space and a desk in one piece of furniture. The minimalist design of the basic^{cap} storage range in conjunction with the pull-out top used as a worktop enables comfortable work without sacrificing aesthetics. With the wide range of design options in terms of colour and material, from plain decor to real wood veneer to lacquered surfaces in all RAL and NCS colors, basic^{cap} Home can be perfectly integrated into your existing living space.

basic^{cap} Home

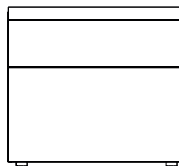

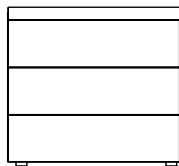

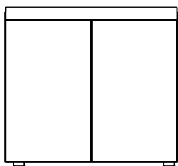

From credenza to desk.

Both as a free-standing single unit and in conjunction with a second cabinet as a side workspace, the Home workstation from basic^{cap} keeps order, offers functionality and becomes a special piece of furniture.

The pull-out worktop with the distinctive mitre joint, merges steplessly into the front when closed, serves as a desk top and creates space for the legs. When open, the multifunctional equipment of a home office: space for laptop and office stationery as well as optional USB connections and plug socket. Everything it takes to work at home.

The 740mm high sideboards are available in widths of 800 and 1000 mm with hinged doors or drawers. The handleless push-to-open fronts underline the clear and cubic design language of basiccap. When setting up, a wall mount bracket to the wall is supplied to ensure maximum stability.
